- The cylinder head gaskets, from the model year 1997 and forward, have individual push rod holes that guide the push rod to the center of the lifter.
- The new cylinder head gaskets have the word UP painted on them.
- The new cylinder head gaskets may be used on all previous engines, but the pre-1997 gaskets cannot be used on the newly designed engines.
- The new cylinder head gaskets having the word UP on them as well as blue stripes running diagonally across the top, are used only on the F-650/750 models.
  - This thinner gasket can be used due to the lower rpm operating range of the F-650/750.
  - The outer corner of the gasket is visible while the engine is assembled.
